KING’S WORD ACADEMY (KWA) is accredited by Accrediting Commission International (ACI), the world’s largest private non-governmental accrediting agency and is not regionally accredited. Neither KWA nor ACI have sought U.S. Department of Education recognition at this time nor does KWA nor ACI guarantee the acceptance of academic credit by other schools, private or educational institutions. KWA is not registered with any State Education Department and does not receive government funding.

KWA is not a job placement service and makes no claim regarding employment.

The High School program is designed according to high school requirements throughout the United States. We desire to help each student fulfill his/her high school education. Students enrolling with KWA, already possessing some high school credits from a previous school they attended may be able to receive some credit. Each student must be evaluated individually.

It is very important for each student to carefully read and understand the following:

KWA is a Christian-based private school and is not a part of the public school system. We have been involved with education for over 20 years. KWA is not registered with the Federal or State education systems. Therefore, KWA is not listed with them, nor does KWA received any Federal or State funding of any kind.

Concerning acceptance of KWA credits: many colleges, vocational schools and institutions across the USA except the credits from KWA. Many of our graduates are attending, have attended, or have graduated from various colleges, institutions or technical schools. Listed are a few of the institutions or colleges that have accepted KWA credits: Southern Illinois College, Frontier, Rend Lake, John A. Logan, all in Illinois; Mid-continent University of Kentucky, Three Rivers Community College; in Missouri, Southeast Missouri University; University of Arkansas, University of Southern Indiana, Tidewater Community College in Virginia, and Liberty University. Some of the KWA graduates have also gone on to a graduate level program. It is to be understood that the acceptance of a student by colleges and universities depends on the results of the admission testing required by the various schools.

Careers: KWA graduates are pursuing careers in childhood and education, criminal justice, nursing, health and hygiene, physical therapy, occupational therapy, cosmetology, computer technology, management and many other professions and jobs. Many KWA graduates have enlisted and served in all branches of military service.

Schools, including KWA, do not guarantee the acceptance or transfer of credits, nor do they guarantee job placement. KWA does not have any authority concerning the decision of colleges, technical schools or employers, etc. as to the acceptance of credits from any school, including KWA. Therefore, again as previously stated, we do not guarantee the acceptance of, or credit transfer to, any college or Institute, nor job placement.

We observe the privacy act concerning all student information, as well as the guidelines set by our accrediting commission, Accrediting Commission International. If you have not already done so, be sure to read all the information in our student packet and complete the entire application, both sides, print your name, sign and date. Information regarding our accreditation is included on the application.
